Research Interests

- Human cognitive abilities and executive functions (e.g., attention, working memory, cognitive flexibility)
- STEM-enabling skills, e.g., self regulation, creativity, critical thinking, growth mind-set, and life-long curiosity for learning
- Human-AI teaming
- STEM and workforce skills

Agenda

HOW TO GET PUBLISHED

My Research Practices

- Choose a topic
 - Focus on the problem (not solution or technology)
 - Why care?
 - Significance; passionate about what you write
 - Solutions
 - Go deep rather than going wide
- Support
 - Form research and writing groups
 - Find collaborators who have similar or overlapping interests and communicate regularly with collaborators
 - Seek funding to support research and writing
 - Be actively involved in professional associations such as AECT, AERA, ISLS
- Be a lifelong learner
 - Have a goal on number of publications for each year
 - Aim for high quality research

Choosing Journals

- Impact factor – five-year impact factor
- Acceptance/rejection rates
- Reputation within the discipline
- Review process
- Opportunities for follow-on and response articles
- Balance between high-impact and quantity publications

Submitting a Manuscript

- Fit for the journal
- Sending an abstract to the editor
- Completing the study or identifying a journal to write?
- Perfecting abstract, introduction and references
- Proofread before submission
- Respond to reviewers

Perspectives of An Editor and a Reviewer

Review Process

- ETR&D:
 - Double-blind peer reviews (authors and reviewers remain anonymous)

Other types of review process:

- Blind review – authors do not learn who reviewers are, but reviewers may know who the authors are.
- Non-blind review – used in some journals, magazines, and edited volumes.
- Known after the fact – rare and usually with the permission of those involved or for furthering a productive dialogue.

ETR&D Manuscript: General Process

- Author: log into the ETR&D editorial manager system. Select section (research, development, cultural & regional) and upload manuscript. Make sure to remove any identifying information.
- Springer editorial office: check for issues such as plagiarism, IRB, author identification, author guideline, and so forth (2-3 weeks)
- Editor:
 - Check for author identification, fit, relevance, significance, and potential for publication
 - Send the manuscript to a panel of 3 reviewers based on the fit and expertise of the reviewers (1-2 weeks)
- Reviewers:
 - Accept or decline the invitation to review (3 weeks)
 - Accept the invitation and review the manuscript (1 month)
 - Make recommendations about the manuscript: major revisions, minor revisions, or reject
- Editor: Make decision about the manuscript (1-2 weeks)
- Author: Revise the manuscript (if major or minor revisions) (1-6 months)
- Editor: Send back to the same reviewers if possible at all
- Reviewers: 2nd cycle

Average cycle: 2-4 rounds of revisions [6 months – 2 years]

Manuscript: Typical Review Outcomes

- Reject – this may come with a recommendation that the content be directed towards a different publication
- Major revisions required – usually comes with detailed recommendations for specific improvements
- Minor revisions required – usually means one is on a path to publication if the minor suggestions are properly addressed
- Accept-unblind – usually requires a thorough proof-read of the entire manuscript and small edits
- Accept – followed with author proofs and copyright release forms

When Drafting a Journal Article: Different Perspectives Between an Author and a Reviewer

- Follow the journal format; use the author guideline
- Write in simple English
- Prepare a good abstract
- Admit the limitations of all aspects of the research
- Have a good organization
- Check for consistency, grammars, citations, and references

Manuscript: Reviewers' Critiques

- Poorly written manuscript: grammar, citation, and reference errors
- Failure to follow journal guidelines
- Poorly organized paper: lack of coherence
- Lack of consistency among the multiple authors who contributed

- Problems with the design, methods, instruments, or analysis
- Missing important (and/or current) theoretical foundation, literature, alternatives, perspectives, prior research reviews (sometimes reflected in references)
- Exaggerated, unwarranted or vague claims; not backed by a current literature review
- Weak discussions, limitations, implications for future research

Manuscript: Editor's Role

- Rely on reviewers
 - Rarely overturn a review panel's recommendation
 - Reviewer quality and reliability are known after a few reviews
- Select a balanced review panel
 - e.g., experience; expertise in methodology; subject expertise
- Help authors
 - interpret and prioritize reviewer recommendations
 - find alternative publication venues
- Other roles of an editor
 - Journal's strategic growth; special issues; board members; reviewers; awards; communications with AECT and Springer

Manuscript: Editor's Perspective

- Writing clear, concise, coherent
- Familiar with ETR&D and the journal guidelines
- Genuine contribution to the knowledge base
- Topic non-trivial
- Literature review on the topic pertinent and up-to-date
- Research method well-designed
- Data well-presented
- Study likely to generate interest among readers and lead to future interest in related topics

Manuscript: Writing

- Write in simple English: edit
- Write to help people understand
- Avoid using always, very, never, clearly
- Avoid using 'etc.'
- Pay attention to spelling, typos, and the APA style
- Use the author guideline

Author: Responding to Reviewers

- Review all comments and feedback, looking for commonalities and differences
- Develop a plan of action to improve the manuscript
- While working on responses to feedback and improving the manuscript, build a separate response to each comment or suggestion of each reviewer in a table (or in bullets) – arrange the table (bullets) by reviewers
- Submit the responses to the reviewers as recommended by the journal

Example: reviewer recommendation

- Reconsider the use of the term ‘educational technology integration’. I’m not sure it communicates precisely what was intended, and it seems to have a somewhat different meaning at various places in the paper.

Example: Author 1st response

- . We carefully reviewed its use.

Example: Author improved response

- We now offer a more precise definition of the term 'educational technology integration' and have adjusted its use to be consistent throughout the paper. Thanks for pointing out the fuzziness of the term and its use in the paper. Please see the revised text highlighted in red on pp. xxx – xxx.

ETR&D Reviewers and Consulting Editors

An ETR&D reviewer or consulting editor:

- Does not need to be an AECT member
- Usually has obtained one's terminal degree for 3+ years (exception: apprentice reviewers)
- Has published in ETR&D or a similar journal
- Is decided by the Editor-in-Chief in consultation with the editorial team
- May be removed due to low performance in quality or quantity

Consulting editors:

- are reviewers with quality and quantity reviews
- are included in the print book as consulting editors
- Reviewers' awards:
 - Top reviewers with quality and quantity reviews are awarded certificates at the AECT annual conference, appreciated and celebrated through AECT publications such as website, database, and social media

Editorial Board Members (I)

- There are 6 members for each major section
 - Two new members elected annually. This is the time we are starting to seek nominations of new board members
- Each serves for three years
- We prefer to have board members from reviewers and consulting editors
- The board members revert to serving as consulting editors at the end of three years

Editorial Board Members (II)

The board members:

- Review 4 or more manuscripts each year
- Vote 2 new board members each year
- Vote new Editor-in-Chief every 3rd year
- Vote on decisions for special issues
- Vote on awards (Early Career or Distinguished Development awards)
- Serve on standing committees to help maintain and improve quality of ETR&D (journal impact factor and performance; review quality, awards and incentives; journal social media; special issues, etc.)

ETR&D AWARDS

AECT - ETR&D Young Scholars Award

SELF-NOMINATIONS ARE ALLOWED.

Purpose:

This award recognizes outstanding paper focusing on a theoretical construct with the potential to guide research and/or development in educational technology.

Eligibility:

An individual who does not hold a doctorate degree, or who received a doctorate not more than five (5) years prior to December 31, 2020. Co-authorship is acceptable provided that the Young Scholar applicant is the primary author.

Review Criteria:

The paper must be an original unpublished work dealing with a theoretical construct, analyses of related research, and original recommendations for future research and/or development in educational technology. The paper may NOT be a report of a specific research study or development project. It must be 20-30 pages long (double spaced and not including references) and must conform to the Publications Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th edition. NOTE: Papers that are original research will be disqualified.

Selection:

The selection of the winning paper will be the responsibility of the editor and editorial board of the Research Section of ETR&D. Only a submission judged worthy of the award will be presented.

Nomination Procedures:

Submissions accepted via the journal website.

ETR&D AWARDS

Distinguished Development Award

SELF-NOMINATIONS ARE ALLOWED.

Purpose:

This award recognizes the most distinguished scholars in the fields of educational technology, instructional design, learning sciences, and other related areas of research.

Eligibility:

An established scholar in educational technology research and development.

Review Criteria:

- Recent publication of a paper or product with high impact in the area of instructional design and development research and practice in the last two years;
- Work that reflects innovative practice and creative development;
- Demonstrated effectiveness, and/or sustained and superior quality;
- Preference given to work that is likely to have an impact on practice and/or research;
- Nominees/awardees need NOT be members of AECT nor have published in ETR&D.

Selection:

- ETR&D-Development Editorial Board receives nominations from AECT Exec, ETR&D Boards, and the general membership – nominations should be sent to Dr. Gwendolyn Morel, ETR&D Assistant Editor (gwendolynmorel@gmail.com) so as to preserve anonymity of the person making the nomination. Self-nominations are allowed;
- The Development Editor contacts nominees to convey details of the award and determine willingness to be considered;
- The Development Editor then presents a set of candidates along with their short CVs and link(s) to relevant URLs to the Development Board;
- The Development Board votes for a 1st and 2nd choice, sending those votes to the Assistant Editor (gwendolynmorel@gmail.com) so as to preserve anonymity of voters (only Development Board members vote);
- The Development Editor tallies votes and announces the winner, conveying to the winner the opportunity to present at the annual meeting in a session following the ETR&D joint board meeting

Nomination Procedures:

The process starts now with nominations open for the AECT Distinguished Development Award. Please send nominations to Dr. Gwendolyn Morel including the name of the nominee, the nominee's email address, any relevant URLs, and the basis for the nomination.

Please send your nominations by the deadline listed below. It is completely acceptable to contact other Board members, AECT members, and your colleagues to exchange ideas prior to sending in a nomination.

In the past, we have asked people not to nominate more than two persons so as to keep the nomination pool reasonably manageable.

Please contact Lin Lin (Lin.L.Lipsmeyer@gmail.com) or Gwendolyn Morel (gwendolynmorel@gmail.com) for any questions.
